We Are Holistic

If misbehavior is based in discouragement, does it ever make sense to add further discouragement?
1. Remember a misbehaving person is discouraged. They are in the inferiority complex. Don't join them in it.

2. Breathe, slow down, encourage yourself, and don’t act when you feel harsh, avoidant or withdrawing.

3. Incorporate practical, specific ways to actively support, promote, and protect 4 core needs.

4. Create intense, positive connections on purpose. Mushy as it sounds, abundant affection and encouragement are crucial.

At Minimum: Do no harm.
